

Fact

Neighbours are not just people. They can be cities, states and even countries that are next to each other. For example, countries such as Pakistan, Nepal and Sri Lanka are neighbours of India.

Let Us Try

- What do we call the people who live near our house?
- Circle T for true and F for false statements.

- We should not talk to our neighbours.
- We cannot take help from our neighbours.
- We can make friends with our neighbours.
- We should disturb our neighbours.
- We invite our friends to our house on our birthday.

T

F

T

F

T

F

T

F

T

F

- Complete the following table.

	Name of your neighbour	Number of their family members
1	Aamble family	Five

2

Patil family

Four

3

ERbote family

Three

Let Us Recap

- Parents and their children make a family.
- Grandparents, uncles, aunts and cousins are part of one's extended family.
- Each family is different.
- There are two types of families. They are nuclear family and joint family.
- Family members must help each other.
- People who live near our house are called our neighbours.
- Neighbours should help each other.
- We can have lots of fun with our family, friends and neighbours.

Glossary

extended family: a family including grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins

chores: small jobs, such as cleaning obedient: doing what you have been asked to do by an elder

moment: very short period of time