

not one way transport.

 (3) Plants in an ecosystem are called primary consumers.

Ans. Correction : Plants in an ecosystem are producers. Green plants are called producers as they carry out photosynthesis with the help of solar energy. The food which they produce is utilized by the herbivores. Therefore, they are called producers. Herbivores are primary consumers.

is speedier than gaseous