What is UNESCO

UNESCO is a United Nations Organization to promote international cooperation and implementation of international agreements

It's purpose is to contribute to peace and security by promoting international collaboration through education, science and culture in order to further universal respect for justice, the rule of law and human right along with fundamental freedom proclaimed in the UN charter.

Facts about UNESCO :-

- UNESCO currently has 188 members states (as of 31 december 2000).
- Today, UNESCO has recently added Palestine in the list in November 2011 and it has 195 member state.

What is ASPnet?

Associated Schools Project Network is a global network of over 6,000 educational institutions committed to promoting the ideals of UNESCO by conducting pilot projects in favour of a culture of peace & non-violence.

ASPnet 4 main theme of study:

- * World Concerns and the united nations system:
- * Human rights and Democracy:
- * Intercultural learning :
- * Environmental Issues :

Role of UNESCO

- In a globalized world with interconnected societies, intercultural dialogue is vital if we are to live together while acknowledging our diversity.
- In an uncertain world, the future of nations depends not only on their economic capital or natural resources, but on their collective ability to understand and anticipate changes in the environment - through education, scientific and the sharing of knowledge.
- In an unstable world - marked by fledgling democratic movements, the emergence of new economic powers and societies weakened by multiple stress factors - the educational, scientific and cultural fabric of societies - along with respect for fundamental rights - guarantees their resilience and stability.

- In a connected world - with the emergence of the creative economy and knowledge societies, along with the dominance of the Internet, the full participation of everyone in the new global public space is a prerequisite for peace and development.

UNESCO's activities

- * Education : UNESCO supports research in comparative education: and provides expertise and fosters partnerships to strengthen national educational leadership and the capacity of countries to offer quality education for all.
- * UNESCO also issues public 'statements' to educate the public.
- * Designating projects & places of cultural and scientific significance.
- * Encouraging the "free flow of ideas by images & words"
- * Promoting events
- * Funding projects

Principle functions of UNESCO

- * Prospective studies : what forms of education, science, culture and communication for tomorrow's world?
- * The advancement, transfer and sharing of knowledge : relying primarily on research, training and teaching activities.
- * Standard - setting action: the preparation and adoption of international instruments and statutory recommendations.
- * Expertise : provide to Member State for their development policies and projects in the form of "technical co-operation". Exchange of specialized information.

Main objectives of UNESCO

- Attaining quality education for all and lifelong learning.
- Mobilizing science knowledge and policy for sustainable development.
- Addressing emerging social and ethical challenges.
- Fostering cultural diversity, intercultural dialogue and a culture of peace.
- Building inclusive knowledge societies through information and communication.
- The organization focuses, in particular, on two global priorities.
- Africa.
- Gender equality

The staff is divided into Professional and General Service Categories. More than 700 staff members work in UNESCO's 65 field offices around the world.

BRIEF HISTORY OF UNESCO :

Upon the proposal of CAME, a United Nations Conference for the establishment of an educational & cultural organization (ECOC/CONF) was in London from 1 to 16 November 1945. Scarcely had the war ended when the conference opened. It gathered together the representation that would embody a genuine culture of peace. In their eyes, the new organization must establish the "intellectual & moral solidarity of mankind" and, in so doing, prevent the outbreak of another world war.
