

2. Allow fresh air around the person. Do not crowd around.
 3. Loosen the tight clothing of the person.
 4. Check to see that the person is breathing.
 5. Raise the legs of the person above the head level. This will allow blood flow into the brain.
- If the person does not recover, take him to the doctor.

Fill in the blanks to complete rightly.

19/11/16