SECTION -A Reading passage (10 Marks)

Q.1) Read the passage and answer the following questions.

Swaminathan ran down Grove Street, turned to his right, threaded his way through Abu Lane, stood before a low-roofed house and gave a whistle. He waited for a second and repeated it. The door chain clanked, the door opened a little and Mani's head appeared and said, "Fool! My aunt is here, don't come in. Go away and wait for me."

Swaminathan moved away and waited under a tree. The sun was beating down fiercely. The street was almost deserted. A donkey was standing near a pole, patiently watching its sharp shadow. A cow was munching a broad, green plantain leaf. Mani sneaked out of his house.

Soon Swaminathan and Mani were nervously walking up the short drive leading to Raju's house. A policeman in uniform asked what they were doing there. Mani said, 'If Raju is in the house, we are here to see him. He asked us to come.' The policeman at once became astonishingly amiable and took them along to Raju's room. To Mani and Swaminathan the room looked large. There were chairs in it and a good big table with Raju's books arranged neatly on it. What impressed them most was a timepiece on the table. Such a young fellow to own a timepiece! His father seemed to be an extraordinary man.

On the basis of your reading of the above passage, answer the following questions.

- i) How did Swami Nathan reach Mani's house? (1M)
- ii) What was the cow doing on the deserted street? (1M)
- iii) Describe Raju's room. (2M)
- iv) Which word from the passage mean, 'empty, as all people have left.' (1M)

Q.2) Read the passage and answer the following questions.

Finding food in winter is difficult for most animals when various sources of food like insects or plants are not available in plenty. It is during this time, most animals cope with the lack of food by hibernating.

Hibernation is that deep sleep taken by certain animals that helps them not to waste energy so that they can survive the winter without much food. An animal's body temperature falls during hibernation. The heartbeat and breathing slows down so it saves energy.

Hibernating animals prepare for winter by eating more food than they need. They store the food as body fat.

This fat is used as energy when they sleep. The fat is formed in patches near the animal's brain, heart and lungs. These patches send a quick boost of energy to warm these organs when means to stay warm in the winter season. They take shelter under logs, stones and piles of dry leaves. The animals move downwards to the bottom of lakes and ponds. Some even burrow into the mud to avoid the cold winter. Insects can hibernate as well. To keep warm, these insects find holes underground, inside trees or fallen logs. Some hibernating animals appear to be dead during this time.

Certain animals might wake from their sleep and shiver in order to warm themselves when the temperature drops really low. Some hibernating animals might wake up for a little time to use their 'toilet rooms'. They might eat a little food if they can find any.

On the basis of your reading of the above passage, answer the following questions.

- i) How do animals deal with the lack of food during winters? (1M)
- ii) How do hibernating animals prepare for winter? (1M)
- iii) Complete the sentence. The fat is formed in patches _____. (1M)
